

Celeste

My name is Celeste. I am currently 15 and attend Fort Bragg High School. This photography show that I was part of is just the beginning of hopefully many more opportunities in photography, and I'm very grateful to have the chance to have a show. My trip to New York and photography camp truly was a journey of a lifetime and something I will carry on in my life forever. This inspired me in so many more ways than I can express and showed me I really love the city and all it has to offer. From the 9/11 National Museum to just walking down the streets of Little Italy, this trip could not have been more amazing. I was deeply affected by everything I saw and by the people I met. New York City is like no other city in the world and, in this case, seeing is believing. I adapted to the everyday hustle and bustle, and grew accustomed to all the traffic and people. In the two short weeks I was there, I grew to love it more and more every day. It was very sad to leave such an amazing city, but I know someday I will go back and, if I'm lucky, experience the same life-changing trip again.
